Wingen Heights pupil in tin-opener stabbing

A Queensburgh teenager is lucky to be alive after he survived a brutal attack by his peers outside school, last week.

According to Bhai Singh, his son, who is a grade 12 pupil at Wingen Heights Secondary School, was targeted after he was allegedly bullied and robbed for his belongings at school.

"My son told me that there was a tug-of-war competition held at school so the pupils left their bags in the change room. After the event, my son went to the change room together with other pupils and found that their bags were tampered with. His money was stolen," the father explained.

Singh further stated that other pupils cell-phones and other valuable items were also stolen.

"They enquired with other pupils, who said they saw a pupil who went into the change room. My son and his friend reported the incident to the principal, who called all involved and resolved the issue. All pupils left after the issue was resolved," said Singh.

Unknowing that the pupil, who had been reported for the theft of the items, was 'grudging' him, the teenager made his way out of the school gate and was called by the accused.

"He screamed my name and said 'here is your cellphone'. When I turned, the pupil stabbed me three times with a tin-opener," said the youngster, who is still recovering from the incident.

The pupil received over 20 stitches near his ear and is recovering from the trauma of the incident.

The boy was stabbed near his ears.

"Thankfully, the perpetrator missed his jugular veins or he would have bled to death. A parent, who intervened, grabbed the accused and he stopped swiping the weapon at my son. If not, he would have killed my son. The same pupil allegedly threatened another pupil in his class with a knife, a week ago, telling him that he is going to kill him," Singh claimed.

The father added, "We feel that the boy is a danger to pupils at the school. We hope that parents and staff at the school take a more active role in these children so that their behaviour improves and our children are safe at school."

Principal of the school, Mr JS Govender, said security guards are employed to protect pupils within the parameters of the school and even though the incident occurred outside the school premises, a disciplinary hearing was held.

The management and staff of the Rising Sun Community Newspapers take this opportunity in wishing our Muslim advertisers and readers well during the holy month of Ramadan.

Community mourns death of renowned entertainer

SA's top musician and entertainer, Ramesh Hassan, who played the right notes to foster communal harmony, passed away, over the weekend. Hassan (73) was considered the face of Hindu-Muslim unity in South Africa and died after he suffered a fatal heart attack.

He started performing at the age of 14, belting out cover versions of popular songs of singers like Elvis Presley and Cliff Richard among others.

He later shifted his skills to singing in Hindi, Tamil, Telugu, Gujarati, Urdu and the indigenous languages including Afrikaans, Zulu and Sesotho.

Ramesh Hassan will forever be remembered.

First 'Win a Car' finalist drawn

The first of five finalists in the Rising Sun Community Newspapers and Halfway Toyota Malanda 'Win a Car' competition was drawn at Pick n Pay in Scott Street, Scottburgh, on Friday, May 11. Susan Marie Stevenson (pictured), from Amanzimtoti, was the winner of the draw, which was done by Steven van den Berg, the manager of the Pick n Pay Family Store.

'Don't just reach for the stars, be a star' - former Chats woman

A former Chatsworth woman hopes to inspire others to follow the path less traveled after moving to Dubai to pursue a career as a crew member of Emirates Airline, recently.

Twenty-five-year-old Shernel Lee Krupanandham was inspired by the lifestyle of flight attendants. In an interview with the bubbly resident, she said, "I didn't wish to have a mediocre life. I prefer a life that is spontaneous and full of adventure, travels and growth. My favourite part of my job is creating memories people dream about and making friends throughout the world."

Krupanandham said she is abundantly blessed and is grateful to God for placing her in situations that she did not even apply for. "Words cannot do justice to the amount of gratitude I have," she humbly said.

Krupanandham, who also dabbles in modeling, resided in Chatsworth for nine years before relocating to Dubai.

"In an average day, I would wake up in Dubai and go to sleep in New York. It was challenging to adjust to different sleep patterns and trying not to fight the 'body clock'. My message for aspiring flight attendants is to not just reach for the stars, but rather be a star," added Krupanandham. She added that everyone has the capability to excel and over time, she has learned that nothing comes easy in life.

"One needs to have persistence, determination, faith and will-power to achieve anything they want in life. Don't listen to those clichés such as 'it's not what you know, it's who you know'. Listen to your heart always," she added.

According to Krupanandham, cabin crew training consisted of extensive seven weeks of in-house Emirates training which included medical training, fire-fighting, advanced restraint techniques, safety and emergency equipment procedures, image and uniform training, service training, customer relationship management and evacuation drills.

The former Montarena Secondary pupil, whose favourite place to travel to is Los Angeles, California, hopes that Chatsworth residents will be inspired by her story.

"Do not let the fear of the unfamiliar stop you from obtaining greatness. Contentment kills your soul. Believe in yourself enough to know that you deserve more than your mind allows you to," she added. In her spare time, she enjoys modeling, cooking, reading and is an outfit co-ordinator for friends for their events and special occasions.

Moorton family 'forced' out of their home by angry mob

A Moorton family was allegedly forced out of their home, after a mob of about 300 armed invaders, stormed into their property and assaulted residents, on Tuesday night.

After several hours, the family managed to escape the horrific ordeal with the clothes on their backs.

Speaking on behalf of her traumatised family, Raessa Bibi Peerbhay (47) said that she has been renting the house from a woman, who claimed to be the owner, since last September, together with her two sons and her husband, Mohamed Rafick Peerbhay.

"What happened to my family is an act of injustice and cruelty. I would never want anyone to go through this. The angry mob was armed with sticks, boulders, slashes and iron pipes. This should not be accepted in any community. I hope and pray that everyone, who threatened our family, is dealt with accordingly. I feel like the neighbourhood turned their backs on my family. However, I thank those who did come to our aid. I believe that we would have been killed if we did not flee," she said. Members of the family sustained various injuries.

Mrs Peerbhay claimed that an arrangement was made between her and a woman, who was believed to be the owner of the property.

"The supposed owner of the property was leading the mob. She signed an affidavit that if we paid an amount of money to her, the property would become ours. Together with our mosque, we managed to get the money together and pay her. She failed to release the title deed to the house. After requesting a utility bill and further investigations, we realised that the owner of the property has been dead since 1994. I did not try to steal this woman's house. My family and I were victims of fraud."

Meanwhile, chairman of the Moorton Community Policing Forum, Zain Suliman said, "The incident at Lusaka was a dispute between landlord and tenant. It's a complicated story as to who owns the property. The owner went to collect her rental which amounts to over R4,000 and was assaulted by the tenants and that is when things got out of hand. There were threats made, however, the Moorton CPF crew managed to negotiate and bring calm to the situation. We've established an understanding with key residents at Lusaka and a working relationship via the Moorton CPF. To our Moorton CPF crew, Crossmoor and all parties who were ready to provide assistance, may God bless us all." Corporate communications officer of the eThekweni Inner South cluster, Cpt Cheryl Pillay said on Tuesday, May 8, 2018 at about 6pm, an altercation occurred between a landlord and tenant at Rainbow Crescent in Moorton. Chatsworth SAPS is investigating a case of common assault and malicious damage to property.

Raessa Bibi Peerbhay is comforted by her 14-year-old son, Mohamed Shaahud following the traumatic ordeal.

Welbedacht East residents discover body following alleged muti killing

A case of murder is under investigation after residents from Shumbuzo Pagathi Street in Welbedacht East discovered the body of a 39-year-old man in a yard at about 6am, on Monday morning. According to communications officer of the eThekweni Inner South cluster, Cpt Cheryl Pillay, the victim was found with his private parts removed. She explained that the next of kin has been informed. "At this stage, investigations are continuing. No arrests have been made as yet," added Cpt Pillay.

Former Chatsworth man stays true to his roots

A former Montford resident, who is now living in Sweden, is on a mission to put his hometown on the map after successfully launching his published novel, entitled 'Chatsworth', recently. Through this gesture, Pravasan Pillay (40) has proven that it is important for one to always remember their roots. During an interview, he explained that he was inspired by residents of Chatsworth. He said, "The book is entitled 'Chatsworth' and I believe that the township and its vibrant residents were my primary inspiration. I grew up in Chatsworth so I am very familiar with the area. I don't live in Chatsworth anymore however, having some distance, helped me write about it better." According to Pillay, Chatsworth is an interesting place and community and he would like to see more stories of this nature being published. "Personally, one of the things I am interested in is 'Durban-Indian English' and what I tried to do in my book is depict this language in a respectful and accurate manner. We have a tendency to look down on 'Chatsworth-English' but it is actually quite a beautiful, nuanced language," he proudly said. The author, who is a humble individual and cares a great deal about his community, added, "We need to take more pride in it. My book is not about big issues though, it is about ordinary, working-class people, people on the margins of society, and what I tried to do is offer a brief glimpse into their lives." Pillay spent a great amount of time on the short-story novel and is excited to see his work finally printed. While growing up, Pravasan Pillay proudly displays a copy of his recently launched book, which focuses on Chatsworth and its people.

the avid reader spent a lot of time at the library and attributes his success to his family and teachers. "I had a very good support system growing up. Even though we didn't have that much money, my mother always took me to the library and bought me books and comics whenever she could. I would also single out three English teachers I had, Mrs J Naidoo from Pinewood Primary and Mr SP Naidoo and Mr RV Pillay from Brindhaven Secondary. They were really very gentle, smart and supportive. I don't think you can ask for more as pupil. That said, there are also many more people, who have helped me develop as a writer." The passionate author believes that he is a success in his own right and advises aspiring writers to read and create their own content. Pillay has been nurturing his talent since he was about nine-years-old and was proud to note that the book is getting out there in the world and has been receiving really good feedback thus far. The Stockholm resident is currently working on another collection of stories, which are also set on Chatsworth. The recently launched book is currently available for purchase at the Nelson Mandela Chatsworth Youth Centre and will be available at the careers expo on Saturday, May 19. In addition to this, Pillay has also published another book which is a collection of co-written comedic short stories called 'Shaggy'. In his spare time, he enjoys reading, walking and tucking into bunny chows.

Youth centre to host biggest career and jobs expo in Chatsworth

The annual Dream Catchers Jobs, Skills and Tertiary Studies Careers Expo will be held at the Nelson Mandela Community Youth Centre in Chatsworth on Saturday, May 19, from 9am to 2pm. The event is sponsored by Trans-Med Shipping and is a great opportunity for school pupils, students, teachers, parents and unemployed youth to engage with exhibitors. The expo promises to educate and inform young and old about career choices, places to study at and where to find employment. It is a free initiative and exhibitors will provide valuable information, advice and experience about career paths, where to study and the availability of learnerships, apprenticeships or job opportunities. From 1pm to 2pm, a live panel discussion will be hosted by Lotus FM, with panelists talking about career choices, how to apply for government financial study-aid, skills development, entrepreneur programmes and how to get into higher learning institutions. One of the highlights and which has not been done before at this annual expo, will be a focus on youth with disabilities and special needs. Some exhibitors will focus on SETA training interventions for special needs youth through an IT academy. They will be pointing people in the direction of opportunities in the special needs sector, to allow youth to lead as full a life as possible by developing a career and finding a job. Exhibitors can contact the organisers if they are keen to exhibit. For more information, contact Clive Pillay on 061-429-2574.

The expo promises to educate and inform young and old about career choices.

Renowned artist sings her heart out in latest album

A 54-year-old former Durban artist, now residing in India, launched her much-awaited album, 'Heart to Heart' at her concert held at the iZulu Theatre at Sibaya, last week. The beautiful Shashika Mooruth is a triple threat as she is a talented music producer, composer and singer. She is excited about the release of her romantic album, which she is certain will be a hit among her fans.

Mooruth explained, "I understood over the years of diving deeper into my music that music is my higher connection and that emotion is the key to that. I was inspired to experiment with different genres to experience the emotion in my voice. My main composer in 'Heart to Heart' is Rajeev Mahavir. He has composed six of the eight songs and when we met in 2014, we decided that as I had already released many devotional albums, why not a romantic album?" She was always showered with love and support from her well-wishers in South Africa and said she is thankful to everyone who contributed towards her success. The singer, who currently resides in Mumbai added, "I feel that this is a really great moment in my musical journey and I want to share it in the city that I grew up in with all my well-wishers." She feels that she is extremely fortunate as in Mumbai, Shri Anup Jalota already received and gave the album his blessings for the South African launch. "I also invited 70s Bollywood superstar, Ms Zeenat Aman to be part of my concert," she added. In her latest album, Mooruth sang eight songs that portray not just different emotions of love but also love as experienced from adolescence to womanhood.

"These are my very own songs in which I could showcase my versatility to sing in a voice that spans different ages of a woman in love," explained Mooruth. The album took about three years to produce. Speaking about the album, the talented individual added, "I have sung as an adolescent would when she feels the early stages of love, to a teenager excited about her first love, to a young woman in her 20s madly in love, to a woman sultry and sexy in her desire for her lover and finally, to a woman who suffers extreme pain and separation from her beloved. The compositions and my singing complement each other like heart and soul. The interplay of traditional music with electronic sounds gives a perfect blend and texture to the moods portrayed."

The theme of the album is romance while the genre differs from pop rock to traditional Indian to ambient.

SUPERSPAR Chatsworth gives back

Manager of SUPERSPAR Chatsworth, Don Govender, is seen with the father and son.

SUPERSPAR Chatsworth proved their dedication and commitment to the community they serve and donated a stationery hamper to a teen abuse victim, who shared appalling details of physical abuse, torture, starvation, emotional abuse and neglect to his father and doctors, who treated him, after he ran away from his home in Chiltern Heights, a few months ago.

National Cupcake Day - a sweet occasion

Glitz and glamour at 2018 Rising Sun Gold Challenge Racing Carnival

The Rising Sun Community Newspapers will once again join forces with Gold Circle to stage one of its most-awaited events: the Rising Sun Gold Challenge Racing Carnival. The event takes place on Saturday, June 9, 2018, at the Greyville Racecourse and features the grade one R1 million Rising Sun Gold Challenge race. Gates will open at 10am and entrance is free. The Rising Sun Gold Challenge Racing Carnival is a charity event and this year, CC Promotions has been selected as the beneficiary. An exciting, fun-filled and fabulous day awaits patrons, with free entertainment for the entire family at the venue. Live entertainment in-between races will be order of the day, including a free-style dance competition. Patrons can also browse through the many flea markets and food stalls. On offer at the stalls will be everything from toys to clothing and a variety of tasty and tantalising food and snacks for all palates. To all senior citizens, there will be a fancy dress competition with great prizes to be won. After the running of the last race, an evening of entertainment has been arranged with Colors TV. There will be lots of prizes to be won on this spectacular day including the 'Win a Car competition'. It could be you driving off in a beautiful and brand new Etios courtesy of the Rising Sun Community Newspapers and Halfway Toyota Malanda. If that's not enough, you can keep your eyes glued to the sizzling fashion show with a cash prize to the value of R15, 000, courtesy of Gold Circle.

Theme for 2018:
UNITED COLOURS WITH DIVERSITY:
Bringing together race, colour and creed, it's the globe of the world you would need. As the race that will be run, much-awaited certainty of fun, and grab a hat that's next to none. A mixture of flamboyant colours of fashion, with pearls, frills and thrills, catch the the avant-garde with limited bills. Diversity of culture to mix and match, crossing the treats without a patch. Instilling that tenacious, charismatic and enterprising spirit, make your mark on a colorful merit. Stilettos, bracelets, diamonds and caps, reel your fashion without a gap. You are sure to reminisce the memories on your mobile app. Create your very own seasonal flows, as the green fields of the racecourse blows. Show the world your imaginable fashion, making your stamp stunningly dashing.

The categories are as follows:
The Most Striking Couple, Students Designer Wear – (must produce student card) and Professional Designer Wear. Registration for fashion (strictly) from 8:30am to 10am. Grandmother found murdered in Northdene home Days before the country could celebrate Mother's Day, a Northdene mother was found brutally killed in her home on Schooldale Road. Sixty-two-year-old Dolly Sinthamoney was found lying in a pool of blood in the lounge of her home with multiple stab wounds to her face. Explaining the details of how he found his mother-in-law lying in a pool of blood with multiple stab wounds to her face, Jody Naicker said it was about 3:15pm when he went to his mother-in-law's house to drop off some food for her. "I noticed that the door and gate were unlocked and felt that strange as she was always very careful and kept everything locked. I proceeded to enter the house and called out her name but there was no answer. There was a blood trail from the kitchen and I followed the blood spatter to the bedroom and then to the lounge. I found her lying on the floor in the lounge. The house was ransacked," he said. Sinthamoney was described by her family as a friendly and loving person, who lived for her two daughters, her husband and her grandchildren. Naicker said he hoped that the people responsible for her death are apprehended soon. Communications officer of Malvern SAPS, W/O Radhika Marimuthu, said investigations revealed that there was no forced entry at the premises. "The house was ransacked and household items, as well as items of a personal nature, were taken. The scene is being processed by all relevant role-players," she added. A case of house robbery and murder has been registered and is being investigated at the Malvern SAPS. Anyone with information can call the Malvern SAPS detectives on 031 489-9624, 031 489-9629 or Crime Stop on 08600-10111.

"Senior citizens living alone are cautioned against letting people onto the property. If work has to be done on the property, rather let this be done on days when family members are around," added W/O Marimuthu. Station commander of Malvern SAPS, Lt Col Valarine Reddy, reiterated that seniors must be wary of who they allow on the property and visits should be done when family is around.

Alleged Bayview serial rapist remanded in police custody

Irate residents, who protested outside court.

The 39-year-old man, who was arrested and appeared in the Chatsworth Magistrate's Court on five counts of rape, was remanded into police custody, last week. The accused will reappear at the Chatsworth Magistrate's Court on May 15, for a formal bail application. According to reports by the eThekweni Inner South Cluster FCS investigators, five girls aged between eight and 12-years-old were allegedly raped by the suspect, who resides at eManyaleni Informal Settlement in Bayview. The victims, who also reside at the informal settlement, informed police that the rapes occurred from 2017. An angry mob of residents gathered outside court and protested against the release of the man, last week. After the case was heard, the mob toy-toyed outside his shack and demanded that his family vacate the premises. Bayview SAPS and Public Order Policing were at the scene and on high alert while relatives of the man removed belongings and vehicle from the settlement. Acting cluster commander of eThekweni Inner South, Brig Coenraad Marais, assured the community that investigators will work around the clock to ensure that perpetrators of such cruel acts against helpless children are dealt with within the prescripts of law. "The police will ensure that stakeholders will offer support and counselling to the victims. Police are appealing to parents to know the whereabouts of their children and to sensitise them to walk in company. Do not talk to strangers neither accept lifts or gifts from them," he added.

The ultimate day out for Durbanites

The will be a variety of fun and entertainment at the East Coast Radio Family Day.

East Coast Radio Family Day, in partnership with African Bank, will bring together some of the best family-friendly activities and entertainment on offer at uShaka Marine World Wet and Wild on Saturday, May 26.

From fun at the Wet 'n Wild, to dedicated children zones, dolphin shows and live music from some of South Africa's best musicians, this exciting day out will have something for everyone in your family.

Artists who will form part of the line-up at the Family Day include electronic music duo, Locnville, alternative rock band, Gangs of Ballet, award-winning artist, Tresor, songstress, Lady Zamar, Durban band, The Kickstands and The Voice SA's, Freddy L.

East Coast Radio's general manager, Boni Mchunu said, "As KZN's leading family entertainment brand, we've partnered with African Bank to create an event unlike any other. It promises to be an amazing day out for the whole family at one of the province's premier entertainment destinations, uShaka Marine World. Where else in South Africa would you be able to revel in such great autumn weather? So we are truly excited." Head of marketing at African Bank, Kaibe Mollo, said, "It's a perfect fit as our brand has established an evolving culture that inspires, uplifts and motivates our people to achieve their true potential. We aspire to propel this culture throughout the communities we

Front row: Warren Moolman and Mathew Horter.

Top junior cyclists aim for Amsterdam

The KZN Cycling Commission has selected sixteen of the province's top junior road cyclists to represent KwaZulu-Natal at the European Junior Cycling Tour in Assen, Amsterdam. The team of 12 males and four females will be departing for the six-day tour which showcases international talent, on 27 July. "The European Junior Cycling Tour can almost be equated to the Tour de France for young riders. It is about as serious as kids' cycling gets anywhere in the world. It is the ultimate in junior cycle racing," said Kelvin Du Sart, Chairman of the Westville Cycling Club, and organizer of the tour. Every year children from across the globe converge on the Dutch town to engage in six days of road racing. The KZN Cycling Road Commission in conjunction with the parents' of the riders will be hosting two great fundraising events for taking the province's top junior cyclists to Amsterdam to race in the Assen Youth Festival. Help make this cycling dream a reality by supporting these fantastic events. On Mother's Day, May 13, treat your mum to an afternoon out at the Rockwood Theatre at Sibaya Casino for "Stay That Rad 80's Show." Tickets can be purchased by contacting Darryl on 084-526-0932 or email Darryl.stedman@gmail.com. Make it a family affair by pre-booking lunch via the theatre on bookings@rockwoodtheatre.co.za. The second fundraiser, the M13 Cycle Classic, will be held on June 3. The event has three distances of 17km, 51km and 85km respectively. The entry fee per rider includes a breakfast snack. The M13 Cycle Classic starts outside Woodcutters in Westville. Entries have already opened and can be made via www.roag.co.za. For further details contact Michelle on 084-407-5566 or Kelvin on 082-446-9833 or email kzncy-cling@iafrica.com.

Rising stars all set for grand finale

The vibrant and talented youngsters participating in the exciting 'Rising Stars...It's Your Voice' singing reality show, are currently preparing for the grand finale.

Leopard Paw Productions together with the Rising Sun embarked on this major national community project a few months ago in an effort to give local talent the chance to shine and make a difference.

It is safe to say that this much-talked about reality show has certainly taken the public by storm! The fourth and final elimination round was held at the Umhlanga Function Venue on May 6.

At this round, the theme was 'mother', with all contestants paying tribute to their mums. The live studio was once again taken aback by the amazing performances.

The show's anchor judges, Prof Dhiren Allopi and Rajive Mohan were full of praises and really pleased by the great talent the artists have.

The celebrity judge for this round, Sivapreai Padayachee, commented that she never imagined that Durban has such amazing hidden talent among children and youth.

The show host, Ishara Desai, director of Leopard Paw Productions, had the live studio audience fully entertained.

Her interaction with contestants, judges and studio audience were extremely enjoyable throughout the shooting.

Leopard Paw Productions is grateful to the

Excited finalists together with the show host and judges. (PIC: Jay's Studio)

Rising Sun, Superkidz Creche/Daycare, Thivesh and Lekha Allopi for the wonderful gifts that were handed to the parting contestants.

Special thanks to Revive Beauty Spa for the generous sponsor of vouchers that were presented to the mums of all the contestants.

Kriss Naicker of Saimel Travel and Tours announced his kind sponsorship of two return air tickets to India to the winning contestant.

Heartfelt thanks were also extended to AnNaz Productions, for providing meals to the contestants, crew and special guests.

Leopard Paw Productions would also like to thank their generous sponsors and their efficient crew for all their support.

An audio recording showcasing the proud sponsors was played throughout the reality show.

The production team is going all out to make the grand finale a spectacular and memorable event.

This highly charged and energetic grand finale will take place on June 2, 2018 at the Liberty Hall, a venue that has state-of-the-art sound and lighting equipment.

Just on the first day of ticket sales, almost 50 percent of the tickets were sold.

Tickets are realistically priced at only R120 and R150, unreserved.

To avoid disappointment, book your tickets early for the final countdown of this much talked about show. Tickets are sold at all Rising Sun offices in South Coast, Chatsworth and Phoenix as well as at Jay's Studio, Gateway, Umhlanga.

For more information, contact Leopard Paw Productions on 071-890-8883 or 083-419-6166.

Travel Indaba takes you around the world

Durban is abuzz with thousands of local and international delegates who are attending Africa's Travel Indaba at the Durban ICC this week. The Indaba is one of the largest tourism marketing events on the African calendar and one of the top three 'must visit' events of its kind on the global calendar. It showcases the widest variety of Southern Africa's best tourism products and attracts international buyers and media from across the world. Africa's Travel Indaba is owned by South African Tourism and organised by Synergy Business Events (Pty) Ltd. The Travel Indaba has won awards for Africa's best travel and tourism show which was presented by the Association of World Travel Awards.

One of the highlights of the event so far has been the announcement of British Airways flying three times weekly direct from London Heathrow's Terminal 5 to Durban, starting on October 29. The service will be the only non-stop link between Europe and Durban and will be operated by the airline's newest aircraft, the Boeing 787-8 Dreamliner. Tourism minister Derek Hanekom rang the bell to officially launch the event on Tuesday morning. "Buyers, all 1747 of you from countries all over the world, while you are here you will experience the spirit and soul of Africa, the opportunity to immerse yourselves in the culture and traditions of no less than 22 exhibiting African countries. Sellers we are here to capture the interest of buyers with our unique products allowing tourism to double, treble and quadruple its contribution to economic growth and job creation," said Hanekom. He added that the African Travel Indaba is the result of collaboration between the bid parties, South African Tourism and the South African Government at all levels, and the owners and operators of attractions and facilities.

Know the signs of depression in children

Depression in children is often not diagnosed because we assume that depression affects adults only. Parents may perceive their children's depressive behaviour to be a sign of attention seeking, naughtiness, a temporary withdrawal or a transient mood swing. The reality is that depression can lead to children running away from home, dabbling in drugs and even attempting suicide.

Facts about depression in children (Ref: MedicineNet.com USA):

Depression can be more severe than normal sadness and can significantly affect a child's normal day to day functioning.

Depression is said to affect about two percent of pre-school and school-going children. Depression in children may have several causes including biological, psychological and environmental risk factors.

General symptoms include having a depressed or irritable mood or loss of interest for at least two weeks and at least five of the clinical signs.

Suicide is the leading cause of death in youth aged between ten and 24-years-old.

Treatment for childhood depression may include addressing any medical problem impacting on the condition, lifestyle adjustment, psychotherapy and medication.

Childhood depression is a risk factor for developing other mental health symptoms and disorders.

Prevention of childhood depression seeks to reduce risk factors and strengthen protective factors using approaches that are appropriate for the child's development level.

Family members, teachers and friends are advised to seek early intervention if a child is observed to be depressed.

Children are not in a position to seek help. As parents, be observant of any fluctuations changes in behaviour and mood and refer the child for assessment if you notice any significant negative change in a child.

Pleas for speed humps fall on deaf ears

I am a Muslim theologian responsible for a local mosque in Chatsworth, who is actively involved in community work for more than a decade. There are about 180 pupils between the ages of four and 16 who receive education at our mosque daily. About 10 years ago, we had made an application to council to install speed humps on the busy road outside our mosque. This was after the number of accidents that occurred on this road, right on our doorstep. Lives were lost. Cars were damaged. Boundary walls were destroyed. Our application went to the highest office of council. We still have everything on record. The local ward councillors were contacted. They came, we sat and discussed the matter. Political parties including the DA, ANC and MF were all involved. Our correspondences even reached the chief whip of the ANC as well as the mayor of Durban. We were sent from pillar to post. The process went on and on for almost a year. Very bluntly, till today, all we achieved was zero. And while speed humps were being installed on Link Road because of a single tragedy a week ago, exactly the same time, we had three more accidents on our very same road. Why must legal measures be taken against us to the benefit of illegal dwellers? Such action is undoubtedly an obvious invitation to a host of criminal elements. The public should be made aware of the reasons that actually call for speed humps. It is insufficient to say that relevant authorities have taken everything into account and eventually decided for it. We, the public, have a right to know exactly what motivates such poor action.

Let Faith Arise Conference to be held

Solid Rock Foundation Church, under the leadership of senior pastor, John Marigadu, will host its annual Let Faith Arise Conference. This conference is engineered to cater for the spiritual upliftment of Christians and also an evangelism tool to reach people and communities that need to experience the power of God.

Over the past years, the conference has given many an opportunity to witness and experience the supernatural move of God and this year is no exception. The church has embarked on a three-day fast that will propel the conference to the next level. The keynote speaker of the day is Dr Etienne from the USA.

The public is encouraged to experience God like never before through inspiring praise and worship and a prophetic word of faith. Believe in a God of the impossible to make all things possible.

For more information, contact Pst Daya Marigadu on 084-586-3481.

CADVA to host volleyball youth development programme

The Chatsworth and District Volleyball Association (CADVA) will proudly host a volleyball youth development programme at the Chatsworth Youth Centre every Saturday. The exciting programme will take place from 1pm to 3pm and will be run by coaches, Adhila Vally and Ajith Maganlal. The first session was a phenomenal success with almost 40 children attending the programme. Organisers of the event noted that this proves that children in Chatsworth are 'hungry for sport.' The association also appeals for sponsors for sport equipment.

Sinika Uthando launches #IHEARTLIFE pledge campaign

The Sinika Uthando team officially launched their first #IHEARTLIFE pledge campaign, which is aimed at reminding youth that life is a gift. The campaign reminds youngsters that even when the gift is broken or shattered, it is still a gift to enjoy. This pledge is to remind them that nothing matters more than life. The organisation is calling on individuals, businesses, organisational leaders, religious groups and the community at large to take the lead in fostering a culture of young people wanting to live by supporting the special campaign. Members of the organisation are on a mission to gain 20, 000 pledges by International Anti-Suicide Day, which is commemorated on September 10. Director of the organisation, Jennifer Chetty said, "As I stood in front of the coffin of a 23-year-old university graduate, who took his life in his family home, I realised that as a community, we have failed our young people. It didn't matter how much I tried to reason this tragedy. We have not done nearly enough to provide a safe haven for our youth to share their insecurities and deal with their fears, their pain, their inadequacies, their demons." Chetty encourages residents to take the pledge by clicking the 'I Support The Initiative' and 'I Pledge' buttons on the Sinika Uthando Facebook page. "Be strong and courageous. Do not be frightened and do not be dismayed, for God is with you wherever you go. Join Sinika as we make the pledge to life and love our children as they love life," added Chetty.

The Sinika Uthando team together with the director, Jennifer Chetty show their support for the worthy initiative.

Fighting the drug scourge

Montarena Secondary, Crossmoor Secondary and the Chatsworth Anti-Drug Forum celebrated a 'Drug-Free Freedom Day', recently. The Anti-Drug Forum in conjunction with the Smart Club incorporates the principles of Freedom Day by canvassing the fight against the scourge of substance abuse currently savaging communities, schools and families. The director of the Anti-Drug Forum, Mr Sam Pillay posed the question, 'Are you really free if you are not drug-free?' and said, "We have a right to a substance abuse free environment. The annual celebration is of South Africa's first non-racial democratic elections of 1994. It is significant because it marks the end of over 300 years of colonialism, segregation and white minority rule and the establishment of a new democratic government led by Nelson Mandela and a new state subject to a new constitution. The holding of the first non-racial elections was the culmination of years of struggle and a negotiated settlement which led to the unbanning of the liberation organisations, the release of political prisoners and the return of exiles and the formal all-party negotiations which drafted an interim constitution. The 1994 election paved the way towards a new democratic dispensation and a new constitution for the country. The elections took place in a peaceful and festive atmosphere, though there were threats of political violence."

Smart Club pupils reading the pledge at the informative programme.

Director of the ADF, Sam Pillay.

Dream it.
We'll take you there.

A trip to remember: Seniors enjoyed visiting Margate.

Fun in the sun for Montford golden oldies

The Montford Senior Citizens Golden Oldies Club embarked on an exciting and fun-filled trip to Margate, recently. During the trip, the seniors enjoyed visiting the beach, shopping and participating in many more fun activities. The chairman of the club, Molly Govender ensured that the seniors were well-catered for during the trip. She said, "It was heartwarming to see them so excited and grateful for an outing of this nature. The experience and trip will forever be etched in the hearts and minds of our senior citizens."

Youth development centre launched in Bottlebrush

In an effort to improve the community of Bottlebrush, a youth development centre, Mlungisi-Nhlanhla was launched, recently. Together with Shoprite, the organisation treated almost 16 families to groceries as well. Proud member of the organisation, Nkosi Ndlovu said, "We hope to help disadvantaged families residing in the Bottlebrush Informal Settlement. Through the organisation, we hope to reduce the amount of accidents that also occur." The main aim of the sterling initiative is to ensure that there is a safe haven for children while their parents are at work. The youth centre offers a variety of exciting activities for children. The deputy divisional manager of Shoprite, Jay Beharie and branch manager, Ady Dayanand said, "The event was highly pleasing and well conducted. Through this initiative, we hope to contribute to uplifting the indigent community."

Together with Shoprite, the organisation treated almost 16 families to groceries as well.

Instructors and coaches urged to register with Swimming SA

Teaching children to swim is a high-risk profession, both from the athlete and the teacher's point of view. All schools, swimming instructors, swim coaches, swim school owners, parents and clubs are urged to employ professionally qualified instructors and coaches, who have been trained and vetted by Swimming South Africa. Swimming instructors and coaches need to register with Swimming South Africa via the district or provincial federation. Instructors and coaches also need to keep their coaching and first aid/CPR qualifications updated as well as to ensure that their police clearances are still valid. The registration requirements are a requirement in terms of the Children's Act (as amended March 2015) as well the latest regulations being promulgated under national the Sports and Recreation Act, 1998. This act is primarily promulgated to protect children's rights and affects all persons who are working with children.

Swimming instructors and coaches are required to follow the process below:

All schools and clubs need to ensure that the employees are accredited by Swimming SA, also that they are not included on the sexual offenders register by ensuring that all their instructors/coaches have the required police clearance. No person managing a facility, school or club may allow a person whose name appears in the sexual offenders register to work with or have access to children at the facility.

Registration of swimmers:

Schools and clubs are requested to register children they are teaching/coaching with KZN Aquatics. This will be done at no charge to the school or club. KZN Aquatics will supply the schools with registration forms that will require basic information only.

Devotees at one of the many historical destinations they visited in Botswana.

Devotees embark on pilgrimage to capital of Botswana

A group of devotees recently embarked on a spiritual journey to Botswana's capital, Gaborone, where they had a experience like no other. Their journey first started off with a visit to the Erasmus Ayappan Temple in Pretoria and thereafter, they moved over to the Botswana Thirupathi Temple. The excited devotees travelled in a deluxe luxury coach all the way through to Gaborone. They were given an opportunity to visit Lord Balaji's shrine. Devotees were dressed in traditional Easter attire and enjoyed singing Hindu songs and bhajans along the route. A sathsang was also conducted inside and outside the temples where they were mesmerised with devotional singing and receiving Dharshan in the heart of Africa. They were welcomed by many of the officials from the temples in Botswana and were given first class treatment. The temples and its structures each had a story to tell especially the Thirupathi temple with its marvel structure and architectures, according to the devotees. Other highlights included their visit to the Sathya Sai Centre of Gaborone, Swaminarayan Temple, ISKCON, the Sikh Shrine and the Sathya Sai Baba Ashram. Visiting the ashram was truly memorable as the devotees listened to divine music and sathsangs. They also visited the Sathya Sai Medical Clinic where free medication were given to the public. "The best part of our pilgrimage was that we did not have to fear about crime in Botswana. We must thank Mala Lutchmunan of Lotus FM for joining us on this spiritual journey and making this trip a very memorable one for all of us," they said in unison. Special thanks were also extended to group co-ordinator and travel master, Mr Marlin Veerasamy. "He shared beautiful destinations with us. Without him, this journey would have not been possible," the seniors concluded.

The Silverglen Civic Association will host their annual general meeting on May 26, at the Silverglen Civic Hall, situated at 29 Harmony Road, from 2:30pm.

SCHOOL NEWS

Proud prefects, who completed the training programme, are seen together with Mr BTD Giga, Ms P Moodley, principal, Mr S Pillay, Mr P Ramdeo and Mr B Moodley.

Crestview prefects complete leadership programme

As part of an on-going programme of capacitating its prefects, Crestview Primary School conducted a leadership training session, recently. Together with a local organisation, the school proudly hosted the training programme with several modules including character-building, communication skills, overcoming bullying, gangsterism and team work. At an induction ceremony held at the school, the proud prefects received ties and certificates for participating in the programme. In addition, the prefect body pledged to uphold the morals and values espoused by the school. The principal of the school, Mr S Pillay, complimented the prefects and wished them well during their term.

Generosity knows no bounds for Beacon Ridge Primary

In response to a plea for assistance which was aired on East Coast Radio (Damon Beard's Big Favour), form staff together with WACO, Con-pack, Avemel and Rapid Builders conducted a team-building exercise at Beacon Ridge Primary School. Pupils were treated to an hour of fun and music with goodie bags also being handed out to them. The companies also made cash donations and pledged their continuous support.

Staff of the school, role-players and pupils at the cheque handover ceremony.

Moorton pupils read to their hearts' content

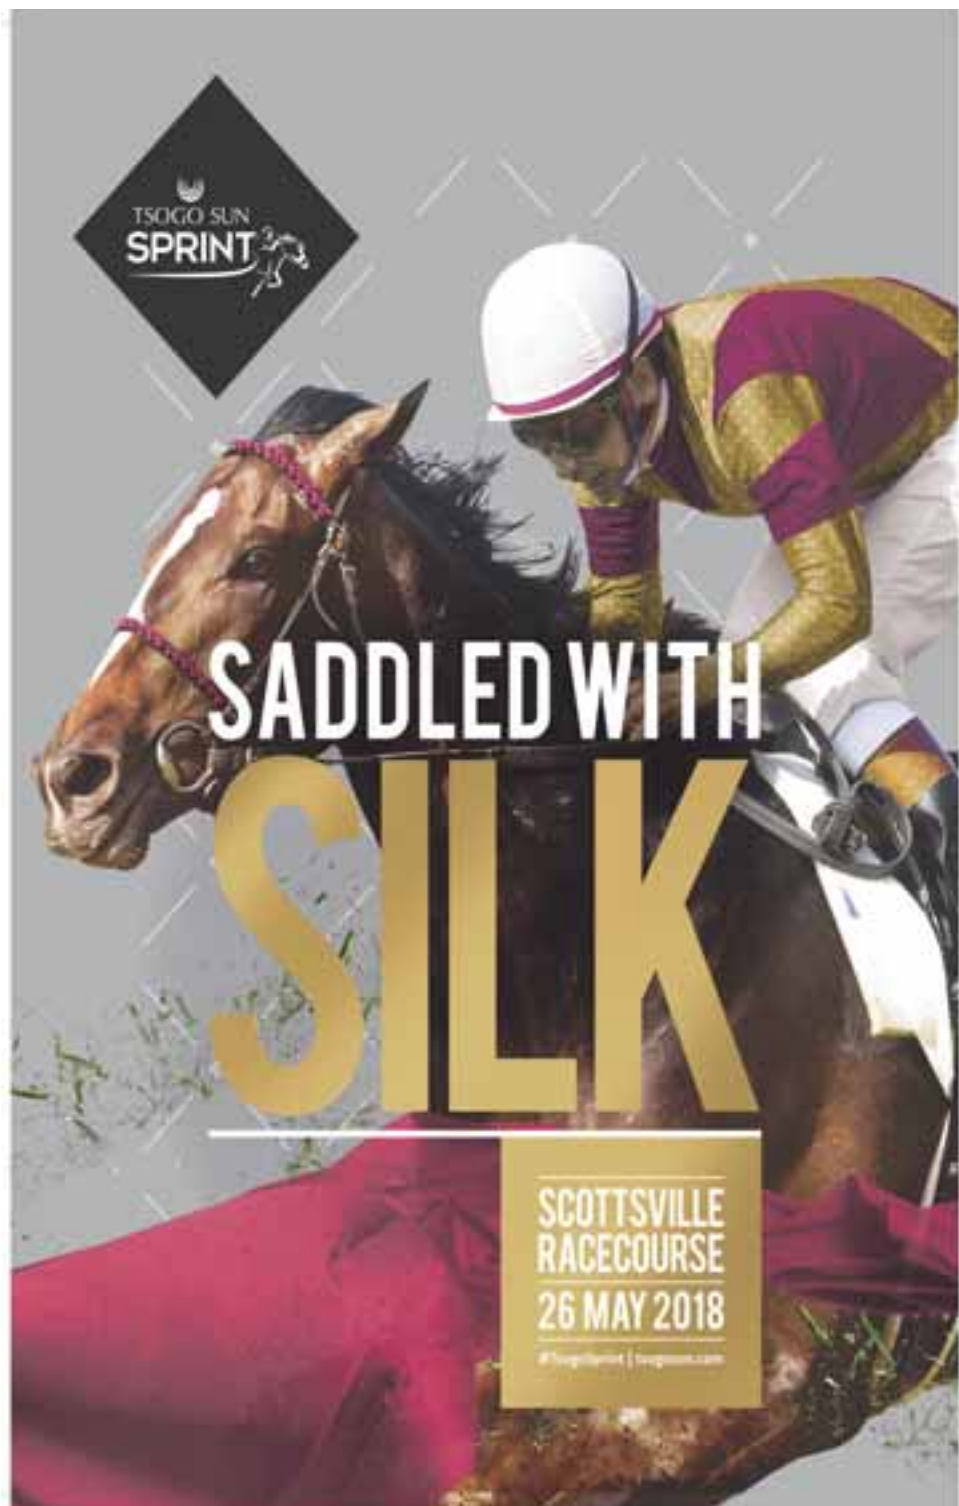

The bookworms of Moorton Heights Primary School happily spent their day reading to their hearts' content at their local library, recently. This was part of an innovative education programme which was held at the Moorton Library. Librarian, Nokuthula arranged the valuable programme and was pleased that all benefited positively during the session. The principal of the school together with his staff members extended their thanks and appreciation to the Moorton Library for keeping the spirit of reading alive.

Pupils of Moorton Heights Primary School attending the reading programme.

As part of its 50th anniversary celebration, Meadowlands Technical High School held an annual swimming gala at the Arena Park Swimming Pool, recently. The pupils enjoyed the atmosphere of the event and novelty items. The exciting event was well co-ordinated by Mr TD Poovan.

Rotary peace walk to be held

The Rotary Club of Chatsworth will host a peace walk from uShaka to Suncost and back on Sunday, June 10 from 8am. Attendees are urged to dress in Rotary gear and carry along banners and placards. For more information, contact Dr An-suyah Moodley on 083-792-1082.

Making memories at Midlands Meander

It was a trip filled with warm smiles, laughter and cheer as the Saraswathee Mahila Mundal Senior Citizens Club visited the Midlands Meander, recently. The trip was filled with many exciting highlights and the seniors enjoyed visiting Howick Falls. Here, they were treated to a delicious buffet lunch which set the tone for the day. They also visited The Junction where they were able to purchase arts and crafts. Adding sweetness to the trip, the elderly residents also visited Chocolate Heaven where they purchased Belgian delicacies. A visit to the historical Nelson Mandela Capture Site was also a highlight. The seniors also visited the Golden Horse Casino. Officials and members of the club extended their heartfelt thanks to tour co-ordinator, Nolan Naidoo for an extraordinary experience.

Police create awareness on safety

The Crossmoor Transport Safety Day was recently held and communications officer of the Malvern SAPS, W/O Radhika Marimuthu, attended and discussed the effects of personal life on the work environment and how they both overlap. Other role-players in the partnership included the Department of Transport, Metro Fire, Shell SA and Engen.

Health MEC urges nurses to go back to basics

With International Nurses Day being commemorated on May 12, provincial Health MEC Dr Sibongiseni Dhlomo thanked all the hard working nurses in the province, and urged them to go back to basics in the provision of healthcare. MEC Dhlomo was speaking at a meeting held in Durban on Tuesday, which was held to consolidate the Department's plans to utilise the skills and expertise of retired nurses in a bid to improve the quality of healthcare service across the province. Addressing a group of current and retired nurses and Department officials, MEC Dhlomo described nurses as advocates for patient care, saying that the current generation could learn a lot from their retired predecessors. "We need to look at what has gone wrong and go back to those basics where nurses were the foundation of love, empathy and care. Throughout the world, if you complain about a poor health system, you would improve that system if you bring back to basics the role that is to be played by nurses. The nurse is an ambassador for patient care. The nurse is the main person that comes in the middle of discussions and advises because the patient stays longer with a nurse than any other health professionals. The doctor comes for a limited period, so does a pharmacist... but the nurse stays for eight hours and will be followed by another nurse when the shift ends. Therefore, if you want to take care of patients and have them satisfied, we need to listen to nurses. The nurses themselves need to bring back that leadership quality that once was there. We have to go back to basics, where nurses used to be at the forefront of taking care in providing care and empathy to patients," he said.

CC Promotions hosts glittering Premier Chatsworth Pageant

Rajput Hall was packed to capacity with stunning contestants, special dignitaries, distinguished judges and an awestruck audience who graced the Premier Chatsworth Pageant 2018.

Coupled with the momentous celebration, CC Promotions presented the grand finale of crowning the ambassadors of Chatsworth. Winners walked away with two trips to Cape Town, courtesy of Samara Tours. The grand event included all ambassadors of CC Promotions. The evening comprised of excellent choreography and mind-blowing entertainment by the Logasen Moodley Dance Company, Christina Pillay and Tristan Pillay, who kept the crowd in a party mood. Clive Chetty would like to take this opportunity in thanking media sponsor, Vijay Maharaj from the Rising Sun Community Newspapers and a host of sponsors, volunteers and members of CC Promotions, who contributed towards the success of the event.

Children taught to reduce, reuse and recycle

Staff of Montford Library, together with the education team from DSW and Sharon Kistnasamy, held an informative programme on recycling, recently. About 70 grade five pupils from AYS Primary School were enlightened and encouraged to protect the environment and enhance the health of the community by preventing pollution and practicing recycling using all the different disposable plastic bags. The do's and don'ts of garbage disposal were encouraged as well. The children participated in an interactive discussion on the subject. It was encouraging to note from the question and answer session the knowledge the children had on recycling.

A GOLD CIRCLE HORSE RACING EVENT

There were no damages during the protest.

Protest on Link Road following disconnection of electricity

Irate residents from the Bottlebrush Informal Settlement protested on Link Road and barricaded the area by burning fires, on Thursday.

Cluster communications officer of the eThekweni Inner South, Cpt Cheryl Pillay confirmed that residents from the Bottlebrush Informal Settlement protested along Link Road.

“Chatsworth SAPS was in attendance at the scene and the area was brought back to normality. It is alleged that the residents were disgruntled with the disconnection of electricity. There were no damages during the protest,” she said.

The inner voice

By Vic Pillay

The lack of reading by most youngsters is a real cause for alarm. Apart from gaining knowledge and exemplars of others, it is such a good way of spending one's leisure time. Reading is a recreational need of any individual and it encourages the sound use of leisure time. Programmes for reading should start at school so that it permeates to the home. Monitoring of reading is essential. Some pupils do not even read their set works and are dependent on study aids. This needs to stop. In the 60s, 70s and 80s, schools that produced excellent academic matric results such as Chatsworth Secondary, Glenover Secondary, Shallcross Secondary and a few others had principals' who placed great emphasis on reading. These were not well-resourced schools but the initiative to drive the reading programme by teachers led to community leaders driving the campaign to get the Durban City Council to build municipal libraries. There were lively debating teams and elocution contests which brought out the innate talents of pupils. This is sadly lacking at the present moment of time. Chatsworth has five fully-fledged municipal libraries complemented by libraries at local schools. The first municipal library was opened at Montford in June 1971. This was seven years after displaced people occupied their houses in the mass Chatsworth Housing Scheme. Subsequently Woodhurst, Moorton, Bayview and Croftdene libraries were opened by the municipality. Community leaders made strong representations to the municipality to develop these facilities which are stocked with modern books and facilities. When these libraries were opened, a special appeal was made to children to make use of the library, as books opened up a veritable wonderland to a child and there is joy in books for all of them. When these libraries were established, it was hoped that extensive use of it would be made by all the residents because a public library is a real centre of culture, propagating human knowledge and dispensing delight. Initially this was the case but this is not presently the pattern. With the advent of technology, devices such as cellphones, iPads and others have become the play instruments of young minds. Recording videos and taking pictures on cellphones of various happenings and playing games seem to be the growing trend among pupils and is now being used as a way of entertainment. This creates problems as many youngsters begin to communicate in SMS language and this translates into the classroom. This is borne out in the essay writing, creative writing texts. Some pupils efforts are riddled with grammatical errors and devoid of current happenings knowledge. This is due to a lack of reading. Surveys conducted indicate that pupils do not read local daily or weekend newspapers. In a recent study on literacy levels in 50 countries, which surveyed the reading ability among school children, South Africa finished last. It was also found that that out of every 10 pupils in South African schools, eight of them failed to read with meaning at grade four level. This is a cause for concern. Therefore the thoughts of many commentators that the culmination of 12 years of schooling with the matric exams is indeed a milestone in a young person's life, and deserves to be noted as such, but the reality is that passing Matric in South Africa today is not necessarily a ticket to success in the tertiary field or beyond. What we need to produce are tickets which guarantees literacy through reading which are on par with equivalent countries elsewhere, and it was hoped that extensive use of it would be made by all the residents because a public library is a real centre of culture, propagating human knowledge and dispensing delight. Initially this was the case but this is not presently the pattern.

Audi RS3 Sportback: The super hatch

Sean Nurse

The hot hatch segment has evolved at a rather rapid rate over the past decade or so. It all started with iconic vehicles such as the Peugeot 205 GTI and Volkswagen's Golf GTI in the 70s and 80s. These cars gained notoriety because they were based upon regular everyday hatchbacks, but had rather large engines, improved brakes and suspension upgrades. These, therefore, provided the average person with a practical and indeed, an attainable way of accessing driving fun.

The formula has stayed very much the same over the past four decades or so, however, recently we have seen hot hatchbacks broken-up into sub-segments. These include mildly tuned 'warm hatchbacks' such as the Renault Clio GT-Line, to hot hatchbacks such as the Golf GTI and then super-hot hatchbacks, such as the Audi RS3 which I sampled recently.

Why super-hot hatch?

Hot hatchbacks, traditionally have been fast cars, but the super-hot hatch segment, which includes the likes of the BMW M140i, Mercedes-AMG A45 and of course, the RS3 Sportback have really taken what we thought a basic hatchback was capable of and rewritten the rulebook. You see, the relatively unassuming Audi provides the sort of performance one might have expected from some sport and supercars of yesteryear.

Performance

Under the hood of the A3-based RS3 we find a very heavily revised version of the brand's 2.5-litre five-cylinder turbo petrol motor which, among other things, now features an aluminium crankcase to reduce the engine's weight by a hefty 26 kg while also increasing its power output. The RS3 churns out 294kW/480Nm which is transmitted through a seven-speed S tronic dual-clutch gearbox and a quattro all-wheel drive system.

These figures translate into a 0-100km/h time of 4.0 seconds, as tested up in Gauteng by one of our colleagues with his VBox Performance Meter. The savagery doesn't stop after 100 km/h though, as the RS3 also manages a quarter mile time of around 12.3 seconds. These figures are deeply impressive for a car that can be purchased at any Audi dealership and comes with a full maintenance plan, and even has room for your dog. The engine and gearbox are the most dominating aspects of the RS3. The off-beat thrum of the 80s-inspired rally soundtrack emitted from the 1-2-4-5-3 firing order of the 5-pot in combination with the standard sports exhaust make the Sportback and indeed, its sedan and TTRS siblings one of the most distinctive and intoxicating automotive soundtracks available.

Hot hatch dynamics

For those looking for the sharpest driving tool around, look elsewhere. The likes of the new Honda Civic Type R and even Ford's Focus RS are far more hardcore in their dynamic abilities versus the RS3. That is not to say that the Audi is a blunt tool, it goes about its business in a more refined, predictable and docile manner. There's still understeer when approaching the limit, but it's far less pronounced than in previous models.

Audi goodness

In traditional Audi fashion, the RS3 is restrained but has enough in the way of sporty touches to make the car appear slightly more special than an S3, from an aesthetic perspective. It doesn't scream about its performance credentials, which is either a good or a bad thing, depending on what you're after from your performance hatchback. Being based upon the already capable A3, the RS3 is endowed with all of the virtues associated with Audi's premium hatchback. Expect the same interior with superb ergonomics, a tangible material quality that is class-leading and a general usability that means the RS3 can easily be put to the daily grind.

Verdict

While the Audi goodness is certainly present, the foibles of the brand are certainly present, with a lengthy list of optional extras that could easily see you paying over R1-million for a hatchback. That being said, the performance on offer in combination with relative practicality makes the RS3 a compelling package.

VW's Arteon makes concept a reality

Sean Nurse

The Volkswagen brand has launched a few seminal products so far this year which include the all-new Polo, Polo Vivo, the Tiguan AllSpace and most recently, its new GT car, the Arteon. First shown back in 2015 as the Sport Coupe Concept GTE, the Arteon has reached local shores and I had a chance to drive two derivatives in Johannesburg recently.

What is Arteon?

In very basic terms, the Arteon is a successor to the Passat-based CC model from a few years back in that it is a highly stylised four-door saloon car that places an emphasis on a sporty appearance and features engines, a platform and interior bits from other products within the Volkswagen portfolio.

Those looks

There are very few concept cars that get to see production without being heavily revised. The Arteon, although toned down slightly, certainly resembles the aforementioned 2015 Sport Coupe Concept GTE. This is a very good thing indeed, up front there's a clamshell bonnet, the new face VW which incorporates sharp, compact LED headlamps which integrate brilliantly with the horizontal lines of the front grille and large lower air intakes.

In side profile, the strong shoulder line, pillar-less doors and coupe-esque roofline do a good job of disguising the fact that this is one of the longest cars to make use of the brand's superb MQB platform. The rear-end features wraparound LED taillamps and a chunky rear bumper which houses the well-integrated exhaust exits on either side.

The need for R-Line

Overall, The Arteon is a great thing to behold but must be finished in the correct hue and equipped with the R-Line package to best show express those design details. The R-Line pack makes up two of the three models within the range, with the base model Elegance variant kicking things off.

The top-spec R-Line TDI and TSI models get 19-inch alloy wheels (optional 20-inch), sportier bumpers, a black bootlid spoiler, chrome-tipped exhaust exits, a chrome strip across the lower bodywork and gloss black C-signature front air intakes.

Interior familiarity

Stepping inside the Arteon, one is greeted by a familiar sight, with the same switchgear, steering wheel design and infotainment/instrument cluster options as the likes of the Tiguan, Golf and Passat. There is a central air vent which spans the length of the dashboard, but overall, it's a very familiar place to be. This isn't necessarily a bad thing, as the Arteon displays all of the characteristics that make current VW interiors ergonomically impressive.

At launch we only had the option of driving the two top-spec R-Line models which come as standard with the 9.2-inch touchscreen infotainment system with Apple CarPlay, gesture control, Bluetooth connectivity, sat nav and App compatibility, a leather-wrapped sport multi-function steering wheel, heated Nappa leather seats with R-Line logo, aluminium pedals and black roof liner.

Powertrains

The engine line-up consists of two powertrains, a front-wheel drive 2.0-litre turbo diesel with 130kW/350Nm and a six-speed DSG gearbox which is good for a claimed consumption figure of 5.6-litres/100km. The range-topping variant gets the same powertrain as the popular Golf R model, albeit with slightly less power and torque. The 2.0 TSI variant gets the 4Motion all-wheel drive system, 206kW/350Nm and the superb seven-speed DSG gearbox. This means that this rather large machine will get from 0-100km/h in 5.6 seconds and on to a top speed of 250km/h.

Driving Arteon

As with all cars that use the MQB platform, the Arteon impresses in most areas. It provides a relatively supple ride quality, is comfortable, refined and excellent in day-to-day driving situations as I found on the congested streets of Johannesburg. When presented with the opportunity to drive both the petrol and diesel models at Zwartkops Raceway, I found both to out of their element, which is to be expected. Despite this, both acquitted themselves respectably and provided predictable, if slightly numb dynamic driving experiences. But, assessing these cars on track is a tad pointless as they are best on the open road, munching kilometre after kilometre.

Verdict

The Arteon is a really impressive product that undercuts key rivals such as the upcoming Audi A5 Sportback and current BMW 4-series Gran Coupe in terms of pricing and specification while offering a slightly bigger package. It is, however, in a segment that is slowly declining into obscurity while its key rivals have the badge credentials to lure buyers, while the Arteon is still an unknown entity.

Service and warranty

The Arteon range comes standard with a five-year/90 000km Maintenance Plan and a three-year/120 000km warranty.

Isuzu KB still has what it takes

Charl Bosch

When one departs the scene, another flourishes is probably the best way to describe Isuzu's recent success since General Motors (GM) left South Africa last year.

Old but setting records

In sharp contrast to struggling long-time stable-mate, Opel, sales of Isuzu's aged KB has gone from strength to strength with a best of 1 499 units being sold in November last year.

While still far behind those of the Ford Ranger and Toyota Hilux, the KB's continuing popularity despite its advancing age and lack of some modern features has only ignited the debate further as to whether a double cab pick-up should, in fact, feel like an SUV with an open load bed.

Although Isuzu Motors South Africa is set to add the seven-seat MU-X to the local line-up, the KB is unlikely to fall out of favour with South Africans anytime soon, which only came to a fore again when the top-spec 300 D-TEQ LX 4x4 arrived for a weeklong stay.

Subtly aggressive

In a segment where looks have become a major talking point ever since the current Ranger debuted, Isuzu has opted to take the understated route where another in a series of updates in 2016 saw the KB receiving a new bonnet, projector-type headlights with integrated daytime running LEDs, a redesigned grille, restyled fog lamps and in the case of the LX, 18-inch alloy wheels, roof rails, chrome sports bar and a tow bar.

Despite not having the macho stance of its rivals, the KB has aged rather well in spite of its extensive cosmetic work, with a certain amount of aggression combined with a silhouette that is arguably more love than hate.

Dated, cheap interior

The exterior is, however, a big step up from the interior where the KB is all but outclassed in terms of quality and fit-and-finish. Granted, while the plastics used contribute to its workman-like characteristics, they are beyond cheap feeling and nowhere close to those of the Ford and Toyota, never mind the Volkswagen Amarok.

Added back in 2016, the 6.5-inch touchscreen infotainment system came as a welcome addition in place of the old dot-matrix sound system, but it looks decidedly aftermarket with graphics and icons akin to that of an early iPad.

In its defence, the system is easy to use and comes with satellite navigation, Bluetooth, Wi-Fi and a DVD player, as well as doubling up for the reverse camera display. It also gets two USB ports and an iPod socket below the Chevrolet TrailBlazer-derived rotary climate control dial.

What counts in the dated cabin's favour though is space, not only in the front but also in terms of storage areas and indeed impressive levels of rear passenger head and legroom.

Spacious and reasonably well specified.

Standard equipment is adequate and includes electric windows all around, cruise control, a four-speaker sound system, push-button start, rear parking sensors and keyless, although safety is down compared to the Ranger and Amarok with ABS and EBD, BAS, two airbags, traction control and Hill Start Assist being highlights.

Unstressed but raucous truck engine

An area where the KB shows its age the most though is underneath the bonnet. Essentially the same 4JJ1-TCX oil burner that has its roots in the N-series truck, the 3.0-litre D-TEQ mill has remained virtually untouched since introduction and produces 130kW/380Nm.

While updated in Australia last year where it cranks out 430Nm, the motor sounds agricultural and is saddled with a bit of turbo-lag, with the level of noise on the move not being helped by a rather old-fashioned, long-through manual gearbox that only has five gears, and which requires a firm hand to swap cogs.

It is, however, a trait that has been diminishing in many top-spec pick-ups of late, with the clutch being light and ideally suited to the KB's work-horse roots instead of the optional five-speed automatic.

On the road

Although the rotary four-wheel drive dial was left in 2H for most of the KB's stay, previous encounters off the beaten track have shown it to be a formidable contender no matter the terrain. Fuel consumption in mixed driving conditions topped-out at 10.0-litres/100km, although after nearly 500km, the trip computer still indicated a remaining range of 380km.

A let-down though is the new damper system which, if you can pardon the pun, has put a damper on the KB's trademark car-like ride in making it feel bouncy, with a further hindrance being those alloy wheels wrapped in General Grabber all-terrain tyres, which had the ability to turn smooth tar into an off-road course.

Conclusion

The pickup segment is renowned for its brand loyal perception, which provides a hint as to the KB's ongoing popularity. It feels unashamedly old-school with the sole aim of being more the hard worker than an SUV with a "bak".

At R571 500 though, the KB 300 D-TEQ LX double cab 4x4 is on the pricey side compared to the better equipped and more powerful, albeit low-selling Mazda BT-50 and Mitsubishi Triton, but if a simple leisure vehicle with the minimal luxuries is what you want, the elder statesman has shown that it can still play ball with the Blue Oval and the people's "volks-wagen".

Land Rover ups Range Rover Velar power and spec levels

Despite only having been on sale since mid-2017, Land Rover has introduced a series of updates for the smash-hit Velar, with the biggest being two new six-cylinder engines.

On the petrol front, the new P340 slots in between the blown-four P300 and P380, and as its name suggests, produces 340 PS or 250 kW with torque rated at 450 Nm. Like the latter, the new mill displaces 3.0-litres and comes equipped with a super-charger although no performance figures are known so far.

The new oil-burner also displaces 3.0-litres, but drops from 300 PS (221 kW) to 275 PS or 202 kW with torque rated at 625 Nm instead of 700 Nm. Like the P340, no performance details of the D275 were divulged, with Land Rover merely stating that both will continue using the ZF-sourced eight-speed automatic gearbox.

In addition to the powerunits, Land Rover has also upgraded the Velar's equipment list with Driver Condition Monitor, a reverse camera, front and rear parking sensors, Lane Keep Assist and Emergency

Braking standard on all UK models, while Adaptive Cruise Control, Adaptive Dynamic damping and air suspension on all six-cylinder models, including the four-cylinder D240 and P300, are optional.

Also new is a bigger 83-litre petrol tank on the P250 and P300 models, particle filter on all petrol variants and revised Steering Assist and Lane Centering systems.

No word on the changes making their way to South Africa have yet been made.

Most powerful Golf GTI ever to be called the TCR

South Africa's best-selling hot hatch, the Golf GTI is set to spawn a more hardcore TCR version, which is based upon the brand's TCR racecar.

Set to be named the Golf GTI TCR, it is set to make its debut at the 2018 Wörthersee Tour, an annual Volkswagen festival in Austria, according to Motor Authority.

The TCR will be the most powerful GTI ever produced, with around 216kW/370Nm from a familiar 2.0-litre turbocharged four-cylinder motor which is mated to a seven-speed dual-clutch transmission with an electronic front differential. The car is also expected to receive a wider body kit, a more aggressive rear diffuser and a new alloy wheel design. The TCR is likely the final farewell to the current MK7 Golf GTI. More details are expected to be revealed at the Wörthersee show which starts on the 8th of May.

Ignition Group supports Slipper Day initiative

Ignition Group is a proud supporter of the Reach For A Dream Slipper Day initiative. Reach For A Dream Slipper Day aims at making kids' dreams come true. On Slipper Day, every R10 donated goes towards fulfilling the dream of a child facing a life-threatening illness, reminding everyone that magic does exist.

They hold this course close to their hearts as they believe that one rises by lifting others. This year, they managed to sell over 800 wristbands to their employees who donned their funkiest slippers to work, recently. Their CEO, Sean Bergsma and COO, Donovan Bergsma showed their support by sporting the funkiest slippers in town.

The mums of Jehovah Jireh Church recently had a splendid Mother's Day celebration with Sister Anitha Ramlagan.

Members of the Rising Sun Chatsworth Athletic Club participated in the 21/10km Starling Plumbers race which was held on May 13. The fit athletes enjoyed the race.

HEALER GANE

I heard about HEALER GANE on a community radio talk show. I took his number and booked an appointment. He changed me to read my future. I was shocked when he told me my name & my husband's name. HEALER GANE saw that my husband and I were always fighting. He mentioned that my husband was involved with another woman which I couldn't. He then showed me that other woman in a mirror & I was shocked! I had lived for 10 years with unhappiness in my marriage until now. HEALER GANE cast a spell & the other woman seperated with my husband & later both confessed to me. Today we live happy with respect & no fighting after HEALER GANE binded him to me. Now I refer him to those who are suffering & regard him as my guide. My husband has been to him & his business has improved.

 7 Years without you Daddy

Time passes quickly and without pause, 7 years have passed us by and each year and every moment without you has been painful daddy.

In 7 years much has happened, there have been joys and sorrows, achievements and new beginnings, so much that we wish you were here to experience with us. Your presence although not physical is felt through our lives as we acknowledge that you are an ever present force in our lives watching us and guiding our journey through life.

We miss you daddy, We often imagine what your reactions or responses would be to the many experiences we have. How we wish your grandchildren could have the privilege of sitting in your company to listen to your many fascinating stories which only you could tell. Your wit, sense of humour and attention to detail is yet to be matched daddy. Life is certainly too short Daddy, We needed more time with you but Heaven awaited your arrival. We will forever be grateful for the many years we shared together as a family, the years listening to your voice and the sense of protection that was always around us. We are dedicated to keeping your memory alive Daddy. You live on in each of us. Your love was the purest, most unconditional love we have ever experienced and it is a love to emulate.

We love you Daddy, now and forever.
 Your wife Selvie, children Clare, CJ, Taryn, JT and grandchildren Blake, Troy and Arabella

Devotees walk with their Lord Ganesha floats at a previous procession.

New look Ganesha Festival

Devotees who attended the mass meeting for the Lord Ganesha Float Procession have given their approval to host the first ever night procession for Lord Ganesha. The event is set to take place on Saturday, September 8, at 6pm from the SVEA Temple in Umgeni Road to the Durban Hindu Temple in Somtseu Road. In addition to this, there will be a Ganesha Holi Parade on Sunday, September 9, at 8am from the Durban Hindu Temple in Somtseu Road to the Snell Parade along the Durban beachfront in which devotees will be able to participate in the celebration of colours. This is a new and exciting addition to the two-day Ganesha festival. This year, the organisation will allow devotees wanting to feed the public for Saturday supper will be welcomed. There will be a limit to the amount of devotees allowed to do their seva. The public, devotees and corporate companies wanting to feed the people, must let the organisation know of their intentions and the necessary support will be given. Devotees can feed any vegetarian or sweet dishes and must make their pledges early to avoid disappointment. The Lord Ganesha Float Procession will start on August 30, 2018 at the Durban Hindu Temple with the invocation of the three Ganesha murthis at 7pm. The three Ganesha murthis will leave its shrine in Newlands West escorted by the Harley Davidson Bikers, a police escort, a sound vehicle and a bus with senior citizens. This will kick start the ten-day Ganesha Pooja which will be hosted by 27 temples in Newlands West, Durban North, Clare Estate, Phoenix, Ottawa and Verulam. The two-day festival will be the conclusion of the ten-day pooja and will include the Mother Ganga havaan and offering, the conclusion of the Ganesha pooja and the breaking of the 108 coconuts. This year, the organisation is hoping to make the biggest turmeric mould of Lord Ganesha and devotees is invited to bring a big packet of turmeric in order for them to achieve this ritual which is one of its kind in South Africa. The organisation will also have top local groups performing bhajans, nagara and kirtans. Devotees wanting to participate in the cultural part of the festival can contact the organisers. For more information, contact Roy Moodley on 084-655-5692 or e-mail: roymoodley@lordganesha.co.za or visit their updated website: www.lordganesha.co.za. DUT student designers Nhloshhle Cele, Nomonde Nyathikazi, Jordan-Lee Robinson, Alulutho Nkosiyanane, and Sibusisiwe Khowa aim for the semi-finals of the Vodacom Durban July Young Designer Award.

Students get ready for Vodacom Durban July Young Designer Award

With just weeks to go to the first round of judging for the Vodacom Durban July Young Designer Award, student designers from every corner of the province are hard at work formalising their ideas for the prestigious competition. Based on the 2018 Vodacom Durban July theme of "It Is Time", the students have to present their finished garments to the panel of judges at Greyville Racecourse on Monday, June 4, in a bid to make the cut for the semi-finals of the competition. The competition is open to registered student designers from across KwaZulu-Natal, and last year, it attracted entries for 105 students representing six different institutions. Organisers expect this to grow in 2018. The Durban University of Technology (DUT) has a strong history at the event, and they prioritise the competition as a key part of their syllabus. "For the second year, we have made this competition part of our second year students' course, and they are loving it," said DUT lecturer Helen Smith. "It forms major part of their curriculum and it is the only major competition they will be entering, while our third year's work towards the SA Fashion Week competition. Last year, we were lucky enough to have the top three in the Vodacom Durban July Young Designer Award all from DUT, and that serves to fuel the fire in the second years!" she added.

Businesswoman and socialite, Sorisha Naidoo, Cerisha Naicker of Umhlanga, who runs a successful bridal styling and marketing company and Margaret Hirsch at the awards evening.

Businesswomen honoured at glittering awards evening

The Margaret Hirsch Women in Business Achiever of the Year awards evening was held, recently. Top entrepreneurs and businesswomen from around KZN attended the event to see who would be announced as the regional and branch winners. The event was co-sponsored by LG, one of Hirsch's most valued suppliers. Guest speaker at the event, inspirational speaker and comedienne, Mary Steward, complimented Margaret and Hirsch's for their initiative for holding the event, and for being a great inspiration to businesswomen throughout South Africa. Announcing the winners, Margaret, who started the competition countrywide six years ago after winning several awards herself over the years, said that she could see how much of an impact the acknowledgement of her own success had been and wanted to see more women in this position. "Awards give credibility to one's business and as women, we tend to shy away from being in the limelight. We also tend not to be assertive enough. This was my way of encouraging women to put themselves and their businesses in the spotlight. The winners and runners-up are people who not only run successful businesses, but are making a difference to the lives of others in all the areas in which they live and ultimately, the lives of people in South Africa," she said.

Seniors from throughout Durban are excited about the sports day, which will be held on June 6 at the Chatsworth Stadium.

DAFTA prepares for exciting sports day

As part of DAFTA's active-aging programme, an exciting sports day will be held for members of the organisation's day-care centres and senior clubs at the Chatsworth Stadium on Wednesday, June 6.

One of the key objectives of the Durban Association for the Aged (DAFTA) is promoting healthy living for senior citizens. CEO of the organisation, Anitha Pillay said, "Our 'exercise in the park' programme commenced in February in Chatsworth, Phoenix and Merebank and will continue in Inanda and other areas of operation. In spite of sometimes inclement weather, many members turn up to enjoy the exercise sessions at the various local parks. The benefit of this programme is mainly to remind senior citizens of the importance of exercise for healthy living and longer life. Regular exercise helps to control diabetic and other bodily ailments."

The focus of the programme is to promote a healthy lifestyle and for seniors and the community to use and enjoy resources and facilities such as local parks.

The programmes include leading and demonstrating exercise routines and the seniors being informed about healthy eating, daily exercise routines and breathing exercises.

"Selections will be made to field athletes for the Golden Games (games for seniors at local, provincial and national level arranged by the Department of Sport and Recreation) to be held thereafter. It is wonderful and inspiring to see many of our seniors thoroughly enjoying our active-aging programmes, especially our physically challenged seniors, who are so enthusiastic. Thanks to our sports co-ordinator, Kenny Venkatesan, our DAFTA sports team, management and staff for the continued success of these programmes," added Pillay.

FISHING REPORT

Fishing:

Fishing has heated up this past week with Cousta being caught in the 25-30 kg range. Natal Snoek have made an appearance and Tuna sizes are growing. Rock and surf anglers are enjoying good numbers of Shad and general rock species such as Black Tail, Bronze Bream and Stone Bream are also biting well.

Weather:

Expect a mild cold front to move in today (Tuesday) with cloudy cold condition and a chance of rain. The winds will be moderate South West-erly. This cold spell will linger the whole week and only lift on Sunday. Seas will be very settled this week and bodes well for the upcoming Sardine run. Check out 'Fishing Dbn' on Facebook for updates.

Westcliff brothers excel at national championship

Westcliff brothers, Ashton Warren and Ashlyn Pillay, have both brought immense pride to their community after they were ranked in the top four in their respective divisions at the Karate South Africa National Championship, recently.

come disciplined and respectful. We are extremely passionate about karate."

The dynamic duo have also been teaching karate to the youth at their dojo, which has been in existence for about three years.

The exciting tournament was held in Pretoria, where the duo excelled.

Ashlyn (22), who obtained his national colours for karate in 2011, explained, "We hope to inspire the youth through karate as a way for them to focus on the positives and stay away from social ills which plague the Chatsworth community."

The pair, who both took an interest in karate since a young age, have participated in numerous tournaments and sometimes, they even compete against each other.

The brothers attribute their success to sheer hard work and determination. "Our accomplishments would not have been possible without the support from our parents and sensei, Eric
